An Extraordinary Limited-Edition Ferrari XX Spider

Discover this exceptional 2026 Ferrari SF90 XX Spider Atelier for sale in Dubai, presented in a striking Green exterior with a purposeful Black interior. Created as one of just 599 SF90 XX Spider examples, this extraordinary Ferrari represents an exceptionally rare interpretation of the SF90 platform, combining extreme aerodynamic development, electrified V8 performance and open-top driving.

Adding further significance to this particular example, it is Car No. 51 of 599.

Its highly focused specification includes a full carbon-fibre exterior, carbon-fibre interior and racing seats, creating a configuration that reflects the performance-led philosophy behind the SF90 XX Spider.

For collectors searching for a Ferrari SF90 XX Spider for sale in Dubai, this 2026 Atelier example offers rarity, dramatic specification and some of the most advanced road-legal performance technology developed by Ferrari.

Limited to Only 599 Examples

Rarity is fundamental to the appeal of the Ferrari SF90 XX Spider.

Ferrari limited production of the SF90 XX Spider to just 599 examples, making it considerably more exclusive than the regular SF90 Spider.

This particular vehicle is No. 51 of 599, giving it a clearly defined position within that limited production run.

The XX designation carries special significance within Ferrari. Historically associated with highly focused experimental and track-oriented Ferrari programmes, the philosophy was brought to a road-legal model through the SF90 XX Stradale and SF90 XX Spider.

For collectors, that combination of limited production and XX identity makes the model an important addition to the modern Ferrari story.

Striking Green Atelier Specification

The Green exterior immediately distinguishes this SF90 XX Spider from more traditionally configured Ferrari models.

Rather than relying on Ferrari's familiar red palette, the Green finish creates a distinctive and sophisticated appearance while allowing the complex aerodynamic surfaces of the XX bodywork to stand out.

The Atelier specification adds another layer of desirability. Ferrari's Atelier programme allows clients to create highly personalised configurations through carefully selected colours, materials and finishes.

On a model already limited to 599 examples, an individual Atelier configuration can make the specification particularly compelling.

Full Carbon-Fibre Exterior

This example features a full carbon-fibre exterior specification, reinforcing the motorsport-inspired personality of the SF90 XX Spider.

Carbon fibre is particularly appropriate on a vehicle developed with such an intense focus on aerodynamics and performance. Its technical appearance complements the aggressive surfaces, aerodynamic elements and competition-influenced details that distinguish the XX from the conventional SF90.

Against the Green bodywork, exposed carbon-fibre elements create a dramatic visual contrast and emphasise the engineering-focused character of the vehicle.

The result is a Ferrari that communicates its performance intent before the engine is even started.

Carbon-Fibre Interior and Racing Seats

The performance theme continues inside with a Black interior featuring carbon-fibre elements and racing seats.

Carbon fibre brings the technical character of the exterior directly into the cockpit, while the racing seats reinforce the connection between driver and vehicle.

The cabin is focused around the driving experience, with Ferrari's modern digital interface and performance controls positioned to keep the driver closely engaged with the car.

The Black colour scheme provides an ideal background for the exposed carbon-fibre components, creating a purposeful environment that complements the dramatic Green exterior.

Rather than presenting luxury in a conventional grand-touring sense, the SF90 XX Spider cabin communicates performance through materials, seating and driver-focused design.

1,030 CV Plug-In Hybrid Performance

At the heart of the Ferrari SF90 XX Spider is an extraordinary plug-in hybrid powertrain combining a 4.0-litre twin-turbocharged V8 engine with three electric motors.

Together, the system produces approximately 1,030 CV, exceeding the already remarkable output of the standard SF90.

Power is delivered through Ferrari's rapid eight-speed dual-clutch transmission, while the sophisticated hybrid and all-wheel-drive architecture provides immense acceleration and traction.

The SF90 XX Spider is capable of accelerating from 0–100 km/h in approximately 2.3 seconds, placing it among the quickest road-going Ferraris ever produced.

Yet the significance of the XX goes beyond headline power figures. Ferrari developed the model as an integrated package in which aerodynamics, chassis systems, electronics and powertrain performance work together.

Extreme Aerodynamic Development

Aerodynamics are central to the identity of the SF90 XX Spider.

The model introduces a much more aggressive aerodynamic package than the regular SF90 Spider, including one of its most immediately recognisable elements: a prominent fixed rear wing.

This is particularly significant within Ferrari's road-car lineage and gives the SF90 XX an unmistakably competition-inspired appearance.

The bodywork incorporates extensive aerodynamic solutions designed to generate substantial downforce and manage airflow around the vehicle more effectively.

Every major surface contributes to the car's visual and functional identity, resulting in a Ferrari that looks dramatically different from the standard SF90 while remaining recognisable as part of the same family.

Open-Top XX Experience

What makes the SF90 XX Spider particularly remarkable is its ability to combine this extreme performance philosophy with open-top driving.

The retractable hardtop allows occupants to experience the sound and performance of Ferrari's electrified V8 powertrain with an added sense of connection to the surroundings.

With the roof closed, the car retains the dramatic profile and focused character expected from an SF90. With the roof lowered, the experience becomes even more immersive.

This dual personality gives the Spider a distinctive position within the limited SF90 XX programme.

A Ferrari Created for Collectors

With only 599 examples produced, the SF90 XX Spider is inherently positioned as a highly exclusive modern Ferrari.

This particular example adds several characteristics likely to attract enthusiast and collector attention: Car No. 51 of 599, Atelier specification, Green exterior, full carbon-fibre exterior, carbon-fibre interior and racing seats.

Together, these elements create a specification far removed from an ordinary production supercar.

The SF90 XX Spider also occupies an important position in Ferrari's evolution, combining the company's V8 engineering expertise with plug-in hybrid technology and the performance philosophy traditionally associated with the XX name.
